Bio-Doc Legacy Films

Created by Will Knot Di Artists and Next30 Productions

“Once Upon a Time in My Life” will be an ongoing, multi-faceted video service provided by Will Knot Di Artists and Next 30 Productions, creating bio-documentaries for our clients.

“Once Upon a Time in My Life” will offer several different tiers of services, depending upon the clients’ needs, desires and budgets. Our subject is filmed in a one-hour interview sharing the most memorable details of his/her life as a form of historical preservation as well as an enduring video legacy for their families and their descendants.

The veteran creative team includes director of photography/editor, Christian Moriarty, and writer/director, William Leavengood. Using professional grade camera equipment and lighting, the subject will be interviewed and filmed, answering a variety of thought-provoking questions about their life and times, and about their ideas and philosophies about their past, present and future, as well as being invited to talk about any unique subject the questions do not cover. The client would be provided with the edited interview on a flash drive and/or online.

A second tier of service will include a video which has been edited and enhanced with visual support materials (photos, graphics, effects, soundtrack, etc.) to resemble a biographical piece you might see on television. The client would be provided the finished product, as well as the unedited interview source material, on a flash drive and/or online.

The third tier of service would offer the full interview, a polished video which has been edited and enhanced with visual support materials (photos, graphics, effects, soundtrack, etc.), and which will include commentary from some of the subject’s family, important friends and colleagues, filmed in various locations to resemble a more fully produced biographical documentary. The client would be provided the finished product, as well as the unedited interview source material, on a flash drive and/or online.

Finally, an alternate version of the above services, “Once Upon a Time in Our Lives”, would be offered to families seeking to document important milestones and turning points within their family lives such as high school and college graduations, Bar and Bat Mitzvahs, new careers and other life-changing accomplishments and rites of passage.
